Comment on: 1.(d).

25X1

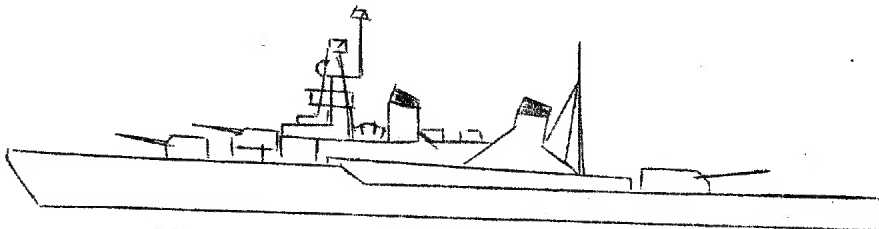

It appears from the lack of naval shipping seen in KRONSTADT that the U.S.S.R. has given up this place as a first-class base for their fleet.

Comment on: 2.(b).

25X1

In November, 1955. the same ship was observed in the same state.

Cruiser seen in KRONSTADT on 16th and 22nd June.

1. KRONSTADT (22nd May, 1956). [redacted] two ships [redacted] tied up in harbour, which looked as if they were joined together with curved iron girders. [redacted] were for submarine maintenance. (See sketch A). 25X1
2. LENINGRAD. Towed up the canal by tugs, a ship of about 4,000 tons "bigger than a destroyer, but not so long as a cruiser" (see sketch B.). [redacted] 25X1 [redacted] brassy-looking domes on the side of each turret, whose bases were about 3' in diameter. These shone in the parts which were not tarnished. 25X1 [redacted] 25X1
3. About 2 miles west of the LENINGRAD ship light, 1 grey "cargo boat" ("not like a depot ship") exercising with small motor boats about 40' - 50' long.
These boats were fast, and the exercise appeared to consist of these boats, one at a time, zooming towards and then away from the cargo boat. (See sketch C.). [redacted] boats were very fast. [redacted] 25X1
